

To whom it may concern,

First of all, I have to thank you for your time and for having the kindness to read these words.

My greatest aspiration is to belong and also being able to grow within an organization that pursues an objective of excellence, every time that leads to an improvement in human quality. Being able to feel part of a team, from which I can learn and, at the same time, to help back with my knowledge and experience. I understand that recognition is a product of work and daily dedication, and if it's about what you like to do, much better.

With the conviction of having the required profile for the duties and responsibilities associated with the position to be filled, I remain at your entire availability to send you, either by personal interview or by the means indicated to me, the extensions and/or the required supporting documentation.

Best Regards

Lic. Matías Barmat
